Q1: which region has most orders?

The West region leads with the highest volume at 83 orders, closely followed by the North and East regions with 80 and 77 orders respectively.

While order distribution is relatively balanced across these top three territories, the South region lags significantly behind with only 60 orders. To drive overall growth, management should investigate the underlying causes of the South's underperformance while sharing successful sales strategies from the higher-performing West and North regions.
